Mazda RX-8

By JONATHAN WONG

When the freshened 2009 RX-8 arrives at dealerships this month, it will feature something in addition to the previously announced styling tweaks and R3 trim package. Mazda is also extending the warranty on the Renesis engine to eight years/100,000 miles (whichever comes first) to back up the company's confidence in the durability of the rotary powerplant.

The warranty on the rest of the powertrain remains at five years/60,000 miles and the basic warranty stays at three years/36,000 miles.

Mazda is also extending the eight year engine warranty from the date of purchase to current owners of 2004-2008 RX-8s and has begun notifying them.
